The Duke, at the same time, ordered two regiments to move up from the reserve, so that Pulteney s regiment stood on the right of the Royal, which had the right of the first line before, and Battreau s regiment stood on the right of Howard s regiment in the second line. His Royal Highness, after making these changes in the disposition of his army, placed himself between the first and second line, in the front of Howard s regiment. While these changes were making, Colonel Belford, observing the body of horse with Charles, ordered two pieces of cannon to be pointed at them; several discharges were made; and some balls broke ground among the horses legs. Charles had his face bespattered with dirt; and one of his servants, who stood behind the squadron with a led horse in his hand, was killed. Meanwhile the cannonade con tinued, and the Highlanders in the first line, impatient of suffering without doing any harm to their enemies, grew clamorous to be led on to the attack. A message was sent to Locheil, whose regiment stood next the Athol brigade, desiring that he would represent to Lord George Murray the necessity of attacking immediately. While Locheil was speaking with Lord George, the Macintosh regiment brake out from the centre of the first line; and advanced against the regiment opposite to them, which...
