Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Federal Aviation Administrations (FAA) automated safety enhancements for air traffic controllers at smaller terminal radar approach control facilities (TRACON), focusing on: (1) the extent of and reasons for delays in developing, testing, and deploying the Automated Radar Terminal System (ARTS IIA) hardware and software; and (2) whether FAA adequately identified current and future computer capacity requirements for smaller TRACON. GAO found that FAA did not: (1) properly manage the installation of safety enhancements at smaller TRACON, which caused a 3-year delay in ARTS IIA implementation; (2) require the ARTS IIA production contractor to perform integrated tests to determine whether various portions of the system worked together; (3) have a computer capacity and performance management program for smaller TRACON; and (4) understand current computer utilization or future computer capacity requirements for smaller TRACON. GAO also found that FAA: (1) awarded the production contract before completing system development and continued to change the system requirements after it awarded the contract; (2) had not established a capacity management program because smaller TRACON had not encountered capacity...

This publication will never be straightforward to get going on looking at but really fun to see. This can be for all those who statte that there had not been a worth looking at. You wont really feel monotony at at any moment of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you request me).
