The fluctuations in the designs of the government are well portrayed in the following letter from Lord Cochrane to the supreme director: - . Most Ext. Sir --.Being at.present: indisposed witha palpitation of my heart, which at timesi afflicts me most severely, and which would be increased with a journey to Santiago, were I to undertake it according to the request ofitlrs government, Ifeol myself obliged to solicit an excuse; persuaded as I am, that the following exposition, which contains all that is necessary to remind you to reflect on what is past, and to Anticipate what is to come, will be suflicient. I also hope that my exposition will be ascribed to the sincere desire that I have of serving your excellency, to...
